

THE DUEL OBSERVER

Volume VII, Issue I "Knowe Thyself, Not Be Thyself" February 10, 2006

COLLEGE, EPA INADVERTENTLY UNVEIL NEW RECRUITMENT CAMPAIGN

"You know what Colgate doesn't have? Cancer water," Administration says

NONSENSE PROBLEM DEPT

By Mr. Lee '07

(HAMILTON COLLEGE) In a remarkable spin on a dire problem, the College recently announced that its multiple water safety violations were, in fact, quite deliberate.

"High lead, uranium, and sewer counts in our water reflect Hamilton's investment in its students. Betcha Trinity doesn't shell out for extra chlorine," said John Nitterman, an Administration official. "It also adds to that 'Hamilton Charm', like massive power failures on the Dark-side or the Points System."

Nitterman added that the campaign was actually the idea of the Alcohol Coalition.

"It's a concession to the vast majority of the campus. 40s of Old E got nothing on this stuff," promised Nitterman, sipping on his Nalgene.

Nevertheless, despite Administration spin and the opinions of credible experts, ("took about 30
See Cancer, page 2

IRANIAN PRESIDENT DENIES EXISTENCE OF GRAVITY

Reality next

IF YOU READ THE NEWS TWO MONTHS AGO, YOU MIGHT GET THIS DEPT.

By Mr. Clark '06

(TEHRAN, IRAN) President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad of Iran made another strong impression on the international community by continuing his anti-Western invective.

In a news conference held Wednesday, Ahmadinejad claimed that gravity was not real but rather a "myth propagated by Western governments intended to prevent Muslims from learning how to fly without wings." He added that, "the myth of gravity is the only thing preventing Israel from being airlifted to Canada."

Later in the conference, Ahmadinejad denied the existence of crocodiles, hockey, Italy, the female orgasm, and the color mauve. He announced a committee would investigate the existence of these and other phenomena that, in his words, are "total camel excrement."

Condoleeza Rice immediately called a press conference to reply to Ahmadinejad's comments. "It is the stated
See Denies, page 4

NEW SPORTS FOR NEW ATHLETIC CENTER

IF IT'S ALMOST A SPORT DEPT

By Mr. Conway '08

(HAMILTON COLLEGE) Hamilton proudly unveiled floor plans for the new Athletic Facility yesterday, which will significantly expand floor space for Hamilton's growing curling, RISK and Beirut programs.

The Beirut program features perhaps the most dramatic growth after earning strong alumni support during its historic run of five straight NESCAC championships.

"I'd like to thank my mother... Jesus...Keystone," said team captain Greg Lung, who out-shot Bates in last season's dramatic triple overtime finale to win the 5th title.

The new facilities include ten dedicated Beirut courts built to international standards. The plans call for parquet flooring and clearly marked 3 cup shooting zones, along with a score board to announce cups made, cups remaining, and the B.A.C of teams. Plans also call for a radio booth for color commentary and camera support for ESPN 8 ("The Ocho") coverage.

"We're going D1," Coach Matt McConner beamed. "We're gonna blaze our way through the bracket. Sweet 16, Elite 8, Final 4, wo-ah! Wo-ah!"

Coach McConner then added a wink, "just blaze, baby. You know it."

Continued from Cancer, page 1
seconds to fix. No biggie.") some students took alarm.

"How does our $40,000 tuition... albeit NESCAC average...not protect us from acts of God?" Sara Davenport '09, whiny freshman, demanded. "Inconsequential and easily repaired though they may be, Throw money at this problem, god-dammit!"

The College vigorously replied, building a towering pyre of hundred dollar bills and stock certificates atop the Utica water treatment plant.

"Problem solved," smiled Davenport.

THE DUEL OBSERVER

ALAN THOMAS CLARK

Editor-in-Chief/Dictator-for-Life

BENJAMIN RHODES LEE

Managing Editor/First Tiger

RACHAEL FAYE ARNOLD

Layout Editor/Winston Wolf

RUNNING BEAR

Indian-In-Chief

FRANK SINATRA

Chairman of the Board

CONTRIBUTORS

Thomas Combs Irvin

Sean Joseph Conway

Matthew Eichenfield

David Zachary Turchin

FINE PRINT: The Duel Observer is a publication of the Hamilton College Media Board, and is published on opposing Fridays. The facts and opinions expressed in this publication are not necessarily true or indicative of the staff's opinions. Any resemblance to persons, organizations, or institutions real or imagined, is purely coincidental

FEBFEST ADDS CHARITY

CONCERT

Something we can all get behind

DREAMS COME TRUE DEPT

By Mr. Turchin '06 and Mr. Lee '07

(ANNEX B) Febfest added a charity concert to its schedule this week.

"Throw rocks at emo bands...for charity!" organizer John Lewis '06 beamed. Students will pay one dollar per rock and have the opportunity to throw any time during the concert. Proceeds are expected to be enormous, "in excess of $10,000, easily."

"My freshman year room-mate used to hit on girls by reciting bad poetry about his feelings with an acoustic guitar," Lewis said. "This is a dream of mine come true."

Dashboard Confessional is expected to headline the concert, preceded by The Crying Puppies and Sadly Darkness Sadness. Rocks will be provided from the rubble of Milbank.

"The darkness of the rocks is like death, my miserable bitch lover," Sadly Darkness Sadness singer Gerry Standford explained. "Why don't girls like me?"

Later, Standford and Lewis took questions from reporters.

"Don't hate us because we're different!" Standford whined.

"That's not why I hate you," Lewis laughed, shortly inviting Standford to resume blaming the sky for snow, sunshine and unhappiness.

Students in tight jeans rallied outside to protest the event.

"Emo kids aren't the only scrawny,

JACK FROST ALIVE!

Rumors of demise exaggerated

MYSTERIOUS ABSENCE DEPT

By Mr. Lee '07

(CLINTON, NY) After an absence of three months, Jack Frost has returned to upstate New York. Standing atop a mountain of snow, nursing a coffee and hangover, Mr. Frost granted a news conference to local reporters.

"I left for my vacation in Mexico in mid-April," he explained. "I'd like to begin by saying that Tijuana is a crazy place.

"It was like a Hemingway novel... booze and women everywhere. I chased absinthe with tequila. I may have killed a man, I don't know, July is kinda a blur."

After months of debauchery, Mr. Frost sobered up to find himself broke and south of the border, already due home.

"In early December, I woke up in a ditch. I couldn't find my passport. I couldn't find my pants."

Mr. Frost has ambitious plans for his return, however.

"Not gonna lie, I'm playing catch-up. Look, next week, just make lots of Mac and Cheese, buy a space heater, and don't go outside. I got quotas."

pseudo-intellectual students trapped in co-dependant relationships on this campus," one protester said. "They're just the only ones who feel the need to sing about it."

RIP Jawbreaker, Sunny Day Real Estate 3

MILBANK SCENE OF RIOTIOUS BEHAVIOR

In other surprise news, snow expected next week
FROM THE GHETTO DEPT

By Mr. Eichenfield '09 and Mr. Irvin '09
(MILBANK, DARKSIDE) In a shocking turn of events, severe damage was reported to Milbank last week, contradicting long-standing Administration policy of ignoring the dorm at all costs.

"Milbank...Milbank. What?" one ResLife official said. "Never heard of it."

Indeed, a careful search of ResLife maps found no evidence of Milbank. In place of Milbank were pictures of evil monsters and a message scrawled in blood saying, "here be dragons."

Yet Milbank does exist, as survivors Missy Elliot and Eminem can attest.

"My tough times in Milbank made me the man I am today," Missy Elliot said.

"Fo' real," Eminem added, before cutting off any further discussion of Milbank. "I don't talk 'bout Milbank no more."

A Duel Observer mission to Milbank found residents somehow scraping out survival in the meanest of suites.

"You gotta be down with the hood team. I'm an educated fool with money on my mind, I got my ten in my hand and the gleam in my eye. Got my mind on my money, and my money on my mind" resident advisor Coolio said while waving a ten dollar bill. "Mr. Hamilton's gonna policy of the United States that the President of Iran is a stupid-head, and that if we can't hear him then he never said anything at all. So nyah!" Ms. Rice then covered her ears and sang "la la la, I can't hear you!" to discourage any further discussion of Iran from the pre-screened audience of Republican Marine officers and day-time talk show guests.

Continued from Denies, page 1

Isaac Newton could not be reached for comment because he's a figment of the liberal media.

buy me a 30 rack."

"It's a hard knock life," resident Annie Warbucks shrugged. "But the sun will come out tomorrow...the clouds of weed will clear out. Tomorrow."

"Yo, it's kill or be killed, law of the jungle, law of the suites," Milbank resident 50 Cent concluded. "Don't think that bottle of Stalingrad wouldn't jump you and your boys if it had the chance. You gotta kill it first!"

CHUCK NORRIS, VIN DIESEL FORM UNHOLY ALLIANCE: WORLD DOOMED

Comments? Questions? Complaints? Recipes?
E-mail duel@hamilton.edu
Or find us on the interweb!
<http://students.hamilton.edu/duel/>