

STUDENTS SEND DICK PICS TO CAMPPO
Oh, that’s why it’s called TipNow?

HAMPOLL DISCOVERS 85%
OF STUDENTS NEARING
BRINK OF SURVEY-INDUCED BREAKDOWN

Sends out one more for reliability

By Mr. Johnson ’14
PUBLIC OUTREACH DEPT.
(KIRNER-JOHNSON) Hamilton students have been left reeling in recent weeks under a constant barrage of survey requests from a wide variety of sources, including a Sociological Methods class, a Sociological Theory class, So- ciological Fuckin-Around class, the Levitt Center, the Career Center, the SportsCenter, and the League of Extraordinary Darksiders.

Some students complained that said surveys felt overly invasive; female students reported being especially suspicious of the survey about preferred sexual acts and positions and its request for a video attachment. “I don’t even understand what Roleplaying Club was going to do with that information,” Katalina Hosenberg ’15 remarked.

Admittedly, not all students found the ques- tions so intrusive. “I’m actually pretty okay with it. I just want to know why they’re all so interest- ed in my sex life,” Timothy Maighdean ’17 said. “Do they, like, want to get Opus sometime? Or meet at a Bundy party? I would even settle for mutual lusting from afar.”

Hamilton administration has announced a ban on any further surveys, hoping to maintain whatever mental stability the student body has left. “Surveys suck anyhow,” embittered college spokesperson John Nitterman Jr. said. “We’ve got what, like 200 students? Just go talk to the kids, you lazy asses.”

At press time, the students of Historic Counseling Psychology were looking forward to practicing their skills on actual mentally col- lapsed individuals, predicting that skull-boring to release their cranial demons would help the majority of patients. The Counseling Center agreed and was “warming up the drills.”

Like this article? Hate this article? Go on our web- site to take our 363-question survey on why you en- joyed it, why you hated it, what we can do better, what you can do better, how you’ve disappointed the majority of those you’ve ever felt close to, and yes, all the sex you aren’t having.

STUDENT WALKS ACROSS
HAMILTON MAP

Wakes up in a new Bugatti

By Mr. Nader ’17
SWAG DEPT.
(VIP SECTION, DA CLUB) Alexander Hood ’16 found his hangover alleviated by the fact that he woke up in a new Bugatti Sunday morning. Hood was having a mediocre drunken night and decided to blow off some steam by walk- ing straight across the Hamilton map instead of inconveniently circumventing it, as most stu- dents do. Hood was immediately surrounded by astounded students who immediately declared him their god and started cheering, “Fight the system!” Sometime between then and morning, Hood somehow acquired his 2014 Bugatti Vey- ron.

The situation was fairly confusing. What bank in its right mind would finance a drunk col- lege student to buy a new Bugatti? But Mr. Hood didn’t seem to mind, claiming that “Haters gonna hate” and “That seems like a problem for future

Alexander Hood to worry about.”

“What am I going to say about the Hamilton map now?” tour guide Mary Johnson ’15 asked. “Before I could say, ‘Don’t walk across the map or you won’t graduate on time,’ and so no one walked across the circle. Now what do I say, ‘Don’t walk across the circle, or you will wake up in a new Bugatti?’”

“I rely on that map to navigate the campus!” Tim Smith ’17 said. “Now it will be eroded by the countless feet stomping over its luxurious carv- ings. How will I be able to find my way to class?”

Dean of Admissions Monica Inzer was very blasé about the entire situation. “The sucker still isn’t gonna graduate in four years. How is he go- ing to get any homework done when he is up to his neck in hoes? In other news, I know what I’m riding tonight.”

GPS comes pre-loaded with Rick Ross’s voice for directions.

STUDENT WITH LATE REGISTRATION
TIME REEVALUATES LIFE GOALS

“Why not take that Underwater Basket Weaving class? It’s writing intensive!”

By Ms. Wilson ’14
MEDIEVAL AND RENAISSANCE STUDIES DEPT.
(BEHIND THE TIMES) Andrew Williamson ’17 was planning on double majoring in Economics and Government. All of this changed the instant Williamson received his 4:45 pm registration time. “I didn’t even know registration went that late,” Williamson complained. “And they won’t budge about moving it earlier—even after I threw a few Hamiltons in Dean Orvis’s direction.”

After meeting with his advisor, Williamson realized that he was going to have to figure out more than just his class- es—he had to reconstruct his whole outlook on life.

Williamson’s Economics advisor, Professor Greg Nitty, pointed out, “Unfortunately, we have a surplus of smart kids wanting to major in Economics. The supply and demand just doesn’t add up. We’re at a theoretical loss here.” His head then exploded.

The Government department chair added, “Yeah, there’s no way that kid is getting into International Relations with any time after 7:45 am.”

Williamson decided to explore more obscure and “cre- ative” options. “At first I had no use for Ancient Greek, but then I thought YOLO. Or, as the Greeks would say, YΘΑΘ. I’m even planning on tak- ing a chemistry class. If I can’t get employed on Wall Street, I might have to take a more Breaking Bad approach to making money.”

Among other courses William- son is considering are Sociology of the Japanese Pond Beetle, The Symbolism of Rainbows, Help me clean out my backyard Geology of a Modern-Day Professor’s Backyard and Garage, Experiments in Sexuality (with a hands-on lab requirement), and The Controversial History of the Cider Mill Donut.

After discovering there is more to WebAdvisor than courses aimed at preparing students for gainful employment, Williamson considered switching his concentration to Dance or Art. “I just realized I have a lot of feelings that need to be expressed. Now that my hopes and dreams of a quality educa- tion and decent job have been crushed, I might as well spend my time letting those feelings out,” Williamson explained.

The mysterious entity known only as “The Registrar” concluded, “WebAdvisor glitches and shitty registration times are the key to creating the open minded individuals we strive for at Hamilton.”

In this issue: surveys, drugs, surveys, and drugs

CAREER CENTER SPONSORS FILM

See “The other 50% of grads need jobs too,” pg. 18.

A WORD FROM OUR SPONSORS

Come buy literally anything. Please. We’re begging you.

LAST FOOTBALL GAME FORECAST	1ST QUARTER	2ND QUARTER	POST-GAME
			“If you can’t say anything nice, don’t say any- thing at all.”

STREAKERS WANTED!

- Ever get the urge to go streaking, but could never fully commit?
- Want to get to know proper streaking technique?
- Anyone ever say that the right half of your body is immaculately sculpted?

Then join the Junior Varsity Streaking Team!

- Learn how to make those awesome masks!
- Build friendships with people whose faces you cannot see!
- Experience the freedom of nudity with the safety of left pockets!

All who are interested will meet behind the hobo hut, old truck, and glass pyramid in the Glen.

Please come wearing the left half of a shirt and a single pant leg. Belts can be used to hold half of your modesty in place.

Half-assed streakers are also welcome!

Found in Buttrick Hall by Mr. Wesley '16

A BRIEF INTERVIEW BEFORE WE MAKE OUT

Beverly Smith '14 is a Psychology major at Hamilton. Before sex, she has her potential partners fill out a short quiz. This is it:

Name..... Class Year..... Gender.....

Remember, there are no wrong answers.

- Why are you looking to fill this position today?
- Please list your references (aka prior girlfriends, one night stands, etc.)
- Would you consider yourself a fan of Dave Matthews Band?
- Rank your STDs from 1 to Gonorrhea.
- When was the last time you called your mother?
- When was the last time you cried? I mean, really cried?
- Did you sleep with my best friend Sarah last week? Seriously, did you? I'll know if you're lying.
- Just be warned – I have fetishes. How comfortable are you with dressing up in an infant's clothing? How about pretending to be a piece of furniture? I am also turned on by farting and mucus.
- Is global warming real? Please provide a thorough argument for or against.
- Please note if you are claustrophobic or have a heart condition.
- Are you comfortable with me taking a sample of your blood?
- And lastly, how strongly will I regret this tomorrow?

Found half-completed by Mr. Burns '17

SCRATCH &
SNIFF HERE

MY EMERSON GRANT PRESENTATION: LIKE, WHAT IS SMELL, Y'KNOW?

An invitation to a summer research presentation by James L. Turin '14

Dear friends, faculty, and associated colleagues,

I invite you to come to the presentation of my summer research based on the age-old question: What, for chrissake, is smell? I mean have you ever thought about it? Have you? Yeah, that's what I thought. The following is a short synopsis of my research.

The phenomenon of sniffing—of taking up odors into our blessed nostrils—first struck me when I was behind Bundy Dining Hall vomiting last spring. I was leaning over and thrusting my head toward the ground in a heave of masculinity when I caught a whiff of something: dry chicken mixed with Everclear and bile. (Editors Note: See Scratch & Sniff sticker for sample.) It was intoxicating and enveloping and suddenly I got to thinking, what am I even doing to smell this? Like, is this a choice? Like, am I the one causing the smell just because I think it's there? And then I thought, I wonder if anyone would pay me to figure this out.

So when I started my research I just dove right in, nasal cavity first. I smelled buildings and people. I smelled fruits and vegetables. I smelled some old woman, who then called the police. I smelled my ex-high-school-girlfriend's lock of hair I've kept in my pillow for the last five years and then cried myself to sleep for three hours. But the real breakthrough came when I smelled a little devil called benzoylmethylecgonine, or to the common man, cocaine.

Holy shit was that amazing. For my research, I mean. It just opened so many doors into the world of smelling and things to be smelled. I smelled so much of that magical, research-propelling drug that my $4,000 ran out in three weeks. And then Hamilton wouldn't give me any more funding—those stone age bureaucrats! So with the last of my resources, and the last of my little helper, I constructed a 150 page epic poem on the subject of smelling with an accompanying short film called The White Savior. It'll blow your mind.

Presentation of this research will be co-sponsored by the F.I.L.M. series and take place in the back KJ elevator at 2:45am on Tuesday, November 19.

Found in the Health Center waiting room trash by Mr. Spinney '16.

OUTSIDE THE BUBBLE NEWS

All the news you should already know, but don't

Eastern Seaboard, United States

Democratic candidates took key elections in New York City, Boston, and Virginia, with moderate Conservative Chris Christie taking the New Jersey governorship. If only more people had read Enquiry.

Toronto, ON

Toronto Mayor ~~Drake~~ Rob Ford admitted to smoking crack cocaine on Tuesday. Ford commented, "Hey, at least we don't have mandatory minimums."

Stockholm, Sweden

The Swedish national government rolled out a new movie rating system including the Bechdel test, which means it must have at least two named characters who talk to each other about something other than a man. Jane Austen is super disappointed.

REJECTED RED WEATHER

By Mr. Johnson '14

Beautiful neon leaves,
I'm embraced in nature's rave:
utz utz utz utz utz

THE DUEL OBSERVER

JOHN KEVIN BOUDREAU
Editor-in-Chief/ Mikael Blomkvist

NATHANIEL BENEDICT LANMAN
Editor-out-Chief/ Henrik Lundqvist

SARBINA ESTHER YURKOFSKY
Managing Editor/ Ingrid Bergman

JOHN PATRICK KENNEDY
Layout Editor/ Zlatan Ibrahimovic

CHARLOTTE HINIKER SIMONS
Artiste/ Leif Ericson

BRUCE SPRINGSTEEN
The Boss

Senior Staff Writers

JOHN ANDREW CARLYSLE JOHNSON
SARAH ALEXANDRA CASWELL
COLLIN JOSEPH SPINNEY

Staff Writers

J. ANDREW PHILLIP SCHNACKY
HANNAH CURTIS CHAPPELL
ADAM PATRICK GWILLIAM
NATHAN TAYLOR GOEBEL
SAMUEL CLIFFORD WAGNER
WYNN ROSE VAN DUSEN
ZOË BIGGÉ BODZAS
BRIAN PATRICK BURNS
ELIZABETH DANESI WILSON

Contributors

BENJAMIN KUMAR WESLEY
JOHN-ERIC A. NADER

Copy Editors

KIM WANG
STEPHEN FAIN RIOPELLE

FINE PRINT: The Duel Observer is a publication of the Hamilton College Media Board, and is published every Friday. The facts and opinions expressed in this publication are not necessarily true or indicative of staff opinions. Any resemblance to persons, organizations, or institutions real or imagined, is purely coincidental. Coincidences are coincidences.

Comments? Email duel@hamilton.edu
Complaints? Or find us on the interweb!
Recipes? <http://students.hamilton.edu/duelobserver/>