HAMILTON DEMS REGISTER DAMNED SOULS IN NY-22

Sells souls for only 1% increase in voter turnout

By Mr. Nelson '23

WHITE SAVIOR DEPT.

(BOTTOM OF THE BARREL) Last Thursday, the pre-internship interns of Hamilton Democrats gathered under the full moon at the Martin’s Way/College Hill crossroads for some non-performative political action. Using expertise they gained during the presidential primary, chanting Buttigieg campaign slogans, and drenched in the blood of Green Party virgins, the Dems successfully descended to hell to register the deceased.

Bea Aligheri '21, HamDems director and LinkedIn influencer, led the coven but was disappointed by the results. “I had hoped to win the district by non-supernatural means at first, so I tried passive-aggressive emails about fighting fascism by voting for whichever Dem will tax my dad’s hedge fund least,” Aligheri groused. “They didn’t work, so I figured we’d have to take some registration forms down and teach those suffering souls how to start a revolution.”

After crossing Acheron, the river of woe, Aligheri led the Dems through the nine circles of eternal suffering in search of spirits willing to switch their voter registration to Clinton. The group had a productive afternoon getting networking advice from their parents’ deceased co-workers and handing registration forms to any vaguely American-looking ghost able to pull its head above the lake of fire. “I want to make sure that the Hamilton locals have the best public officials I can pick for them,” Aligheri said after securing an application from a heretic buried in a flaming tomb. “I just love the Uvula area and I want to give back. Like back home in Connecticut when I go down to McDonald’s and give the poors unsolicited investment advice.”

John Fowster '24 spent the majority of his volunteer time in the Lower Hell city of Dis, where the souls of traitors are frozen up to their neck in ice and can’t escape the petitioners. “Some of the other progressive campus groups are totally performative,” Fowster told the spirit of a ninth century Italian peasant while placing a pen between its teeth. “I tried to join but they wanted me to volunteer in local communities, stop investing my Robinhood allowance in private prison companies, and maybe even attend meetings.” He shivered from either disgust or cold and took an approving glance around. “Nice place you’ve got here. Reminds me of Aspen. Can’t believe what I’m losing to climate change and that’s why we need to VOTE!”

On the way back up, the Democrats stopped a few times to reach across the aisle and comfort the souls of Reagan, Thatcher, and any other reactionary with good social media value. They ended on a reflective note, looking back over their ambitious plan to save democracy by voting and then immediately returning to brunch. “We need to keep Pelosi. I stan her so hard and I don’t get why people are always harping on about ‘healthcare’ and a ‘lower military budget,’” Fowster concluded while stepping briskly over the spinning ghost of Franklin Roosevelt. “Did you see her rip up that speech? Guess the Bernie bros can’t handle a queen.”

about it, I hear he’s not even registered to vote for hot sauces in New York. Does he want Frank’s to take over mealtime and establish fascism over our palette?” Hamilton Frank’s Appreciation Society President Chloe Astor '21 said, before screaming at a student who was registered to vote for hot sauces in Florida.

“Well it’s good that someone on a college campus is finally considering choosing Pete’s. On college campuses, Pete’s supporters are often seen as hostile to other condiments, especially Cholula Hot Sauce. It’s good that David, who isn’t a douchey bro, is considering voting for Pete’s,” Hamilton Pete’s Fraternal Appreciation President Joseph Cantwell '22 said.

“I don’t see why the option of a third hot sauce isn’t made available. Why must I be forced to choose Frank’s or Pete’s? God-forbid I want Sriracha and not one of the same two hot sauces. They claim to taste different but really taste the same!” an exasperated Banksley said.

“Instead of dithering and grumbling over the lack of options, Mr. Banksley should just make up his mind already,” Fedele Bauccio, CEO of Bon Ap-pétit, said. “Eventually he will cave and eat one of the sauces. And in the end, no matter what, us and the big hot sauce corporations will rule the college catering world.”

STUDENT PHONE BANKS FOR BRINDISI’S ONLYFANS

Offered internship in ‘posting hole’ on the feed

(IN LINGERIE - WBU BIG BOY?) After reading an enticing email from the Hamilton Democrats, Fatt Nuhts '24 attended a meeting promising students the chance to phone-bank for Anthony Brindisi. However, it ended up being more of a phone-bang. When Nuhts arrived, he was disappointed to learn the funds raised were actually going to Brindisi’s OnlyFans account instead of his highly competitive congressional campaign.

President of the Hamilton Democrats, Neyo Libruhl '21, learned of the 41-year-old’s porn career while browsing the usual porn sites on a lonely Friday night. He immediately recognized it as an opportunity to get the highly-sought after “simp” demographic out to the polls, who respond well to magnetism. Almost as quickly, he realized how steamy the content was, and settled in for a long night of canvassing his own neighborhood (wink wink).

Nuhts received instructions from the club on proper calling etiquette, such as the proper tone for a piss baby whimper, referring to constituents exclusively as daddy, and Dyson-sucking that shit from the back. The sample phone script emphasized girth, vascularity, and tensile strength. Callers were directed to specifically point out “Brinsissi’s” record of throwin’ it back for a real one. As a notably bipartisan (and bicurious) candidate, Brindisi has shown willingness to work with individuals on both sides of the aisle.

Recent polls have shown his opponent, Claudia Tenney, losing ground with catgirls and foot enthusiasts, both groups the Democratic candidate hopes to include in his “Brindisi Hoe-alition.” Tenney has also come out in support of using teeth while giving top, which has further alienated her supporters.

Nuhts reported supporters sounded enthusiastic, quoting one caller, “That virtual fudge factory got me barkin’ like a dog! RUFF RUFF! What I wouldn’t give to tongue-punch that fart box just ONE time.” All volunteers were instructed to remind constituents of Brindisi’s slogan: A vote for Anthony Brindisi is a vote for that Arby’s grade beef-flap Brindussy.

VOTER CANNOT CHOOSE BETWEEN FRANK’S AND PETE’S HOT SAUCE

No matter who you vote for, your ass hurts afterwards

By Mr. Chivily '23

FIERY POLITICS DEPT.

(BATHROOM, SICK AFTER EATING “CHICKEN”) With Election Day rapidly approaching, undecided voters across campus are struggling to decide between Trump and Biden. However, David Banksley '24 has a much more important decision he cannot bring himself to make: Which hot sauce, Frank’s or Pete’s, to put on his home fries at Commons.

“Frank’s has a subdued flavor that accommodates other seasonings well, but it has a poor shelf-life and another sauce is inevitably going to replace it. Meanwhile, Pete’s has a bold and exciting flavor, but it’s from Texas. I hope you see why I’m confused,” Banksley said.

“Banksley’s indecision is a dangerous threat to American cuisine. You should know which sauce you want to vote for after five minutes. And the worst part

OFFICE of the PRESIDENT

Dear Hamilton Community Members,

Unfortunately, due to the recent COVID-19 outbreak on campus, the college has suspended all off-campus travel. Students may no longer visit the Village Center in Clinton, nor may they visit any of the shops or bars. Students may not visit ANY PRIVATE RESIDENCES especially not 69 PlaceholderAve in Clinton, colloquially known as "Dirty Dave's." Unless, of course, they have been specifically invited. Students, under no circumstances, should turn up uninvited; this is rude, and offending students will be punished. Under no circumstances should students ask Dave or Mistress about an invitation; this is desperate, and frankly a little sad. Deserving students will receive invites only once Mistress feels they have earned them.

INVITED STUDENTS ONLY:

- Once you have received your invitation, it is YOUR responsibility to schedule your appointments at Dirty Dave's. You MUST attend at least twice a week, failure to do so will result in an Honor Court hearing or extra spankings during your next session (both giving and receiving). Please allow at least 48 hours between sessions to ensure your body is properly rested.
- Make sure you are well prepared for your session. Warm up with some light stretching or yoga to ensure maximum flexibility. Come hungry, but do drink a lot of water beforehand. Dave needs you to drink a LOT of water beforehand.
- Please ensure that your safeword(s) have been properly recorded and approved. Students may check their safeword status on WebAdvisor.
- Due to COVID-19 restrictions, students must now bring their own restraints, gags, and blindfolds. Additionally, students interested in wax play must furnish their own candles.
- We are now accepting switches, although we prefer that switch-identifying students are in fact true switches, or at least sub-leaning. As always, in terms of subs, Mistress prefers brats.
- Dave is now asking that he be allowed to release a little earlier. Not too early though. Not until Davey has earned it. He has been bad, after all.
- Invited students should bring either a side (for the potluck), a bottle, or something nice for the house. Nothing too cheap. This is somebody's home after all.

Thank you for your cooperation. Be well, and stay naughty.
